CALGARY EXHIBITION & STAMPEDE

Preparations are practically complete for the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede to be held July 5th to 10th. The show is to be opened on Monday afternoon by Hon. J. G. Gardner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and his Excellency, the Governor General and Lady Tweedsmuir will be the guests of the exhibition on the last two days. His Excellency will present the prizes to the Stampede champions Saturday night.

Several special features have been arranged for this year's show. There will be two magnificent fireworks programmes instead of one on Saturday night.

Three thousand dollars has been added to the live stock prizes and twelve hundred dollars to the Stampede prizes. There are thirteen hundred live stock entries, comprising 497 horses, 528 cattle, 174 sheep and 92 swine entries. These come from North Dakota, British Columbia, six stations in Ontario, Manitoba, two stations in Saskatchewan and the balance from Alberta. This is an increase of fifty over last year's entries. Entries in other departments are well in excess of those of 1936.

The Stampede Parade will start promptly at 1 o'clock on Monday morning with twenty-three bands, comprising 676 men (the largest number of musicians ever to appear in one programme in Alberta) interspersed between the different sections. The Parade will be led by members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police followed by an eighty-one piece massed band, The Logan City High School Band of sixty-five boys, who have won several championships, are coming all the way to Calgary to take part in the Parade. The Blackfeet Tribal Band of Browning, Montana, will lead the Indian section.

A most interesting novelty will appear in the Parade for the first time, the Mechanical Jumbo Elephant, just as natural as life, with a howdah on its back for the princess and controlled by a mahout. Its inside conceals a radio which brings messages to the audience as it proceeds.

The Stampede events with between five and six hundred entries and the best stock ever secured for the Calgary Stampede will again provide plenty of thrills for the patrons.

Running races will be held during the six days.

There will be Morning Street Displays, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings and the famous chuck wagon race will form part of each evening's programme.

Wm H. Martin of Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, will give a demonstration with his wonderful sheep dogs during the Friday morning programme.

The platform attractions are again to be provided by Ernie Young, the outstanding Chicago producer, who presented such a wonderful programme last year. This year's production is known as the "Cavalcade of Hits", a musical show with beautiful ensemble numbers, such as, "Hungarian Episode", "An Indian Fantasy", "A Rhapsody in Pink", "Vanity", concluding with a beautiful "Bird of Paradise" number. Interspersed between these numbers are the best vaudeville acts to be found in the world, headed by Joe Jackson, the star clown, whom many Orpheus vaudeville performers will be glad to see again.

Special railway and bus fares will be in force of single fare for the return trip from Saskatoon, Alberta and British Columbian residents point to it. Tickets and rooms may be reserved at the booths in front of the A. P. R. station.

A Great Menace

The automobile speed artist is a great menace on the highways but he is not the greatest source of danger to the lives and limbs of other users of the open roads.

The man who drives at night with one light abases and the other extinguished perhaps epitomizes the maximum peril on the highway, not only to himself and other occupants of the car he is piloting but to other drivers and the occupants of their automobiles. Certainly as a potential destroyer he ranks only second to the driver with the hidden brain.

The one-light driver is dangerous to the drivers and occupants of other cars whom he meets travelling in the opposite direction, because the "safety" driver is unable to tell whether the single light is on the right or the off side of the approaching car. If it happens to be the off side light that is burning the driver meeting him may be fooled and make insufficient allowance for clearance. The result is a terrific crash, serious injuries and perhaps death.

The natural instinct of the "safety" driver meeting a one-light car is to give the other fellow as wide a berth as possible, because of the uncertainty as to which side of the approaching car is lighted. But here, too, there is a risk that he may plunge into the ditch in his efforts to ensure adequate clearance.

Under any conditions the one-light driver is a danger to others as well as to himself, but particularly is this the case when cars travelling in the same direction are passing one another with a single-lamp car approaching in the opposite direction.

Distance at night time are deceptive, even to the most experienced drivers. When both lights are burning it is not too easy to gauge the distance and speed of an approaching car. To many drivers the oncoming car in the opposite direction may appear a considerable distance away when it is actually closer at hand.

The only sensible course is to have as to distance and the speed of an automobile approaching at night time is the apparent distance between the two lamps and the rapidity with which this distance diverges as the car approaches.

At a considerable distance away the two lights of the approaching car appear to converge, meeting in the center of the road. The one-light driver perceives that he has plenty of time to pass a car in front of him proceeding in the same direction and pull back on to the right side of the road before the car is travelling in the opposite direction passes.

But if instead of the approaching car being an automobile with two lights showing at a considerable distance away it is a car with only one lamp, slightly dimmed and approaching at speed, the drivers and occupants of three cars are in deadly peril and through no fault of any person except the operator of the one-light car.

It is probably doubtful whether the operator of a one-light car has any conception of the risks he runs and of the peril that he is to other night travellers on the highway, or he would surely not embark on such a mad enterprise without first seeing to it that both lamps are in good working order.

If he does appreciate the risks that his defective lighting system entails and knows of their condition, then he can only be regarded as guilty of gross and callous recklessness and should be dealt with in the light of such an indictment.

There are occasions, no doubt, when one of a pair of headlamps will become extinguished through a globe burning out, a short circuit or some other defect which has developed after the car has been in operation. Under such circumstances the operator can be held as responsible if the driver who fares forth on a trip knowing in advance that he can show one one light and who does not remedy the defect before darkness sets in. Even the former, however, if he is as alert as he should be, should be able to perceive by the appearance of the beam on the road ahead of him that one of his lights is not giving service.

The man with the glimmering headlights on his car is a dangerous driver but the driver only showing one light is a still greater menace and the man who knowingly drives on the highway with only one lamp burning should be brought to book on every possible occasion and dealt with without compunction.

Such cases should be reported to the authorities by all travellers on the highway who observe to come in contact with them or to hear of them and the law should be allowed to take its course without let or hindrance.

Until the driving public fully appreciate the seriousness of the offence and report every infraction which comes to their attention, the one-light driver will continue guilty on his way with death at his elbow ready to claim him and those whom he meets.

Generous Donation

Large Sum Given To Empire As A Tribute To Stanley Baldwin

An anonymous donor has given £250,000 ($1,225,000) to the empire as a tribute to the way Stanley Baldwin handled the abdication crisis. It was made in the lobes of the House of Commons.

The donor said he wanted to make a "thanks offering" for the former prime minister's "courageous, fearless and sympathetic handling of a supremely difficult situation, which averted incalculable dangers for the empire."

The money was placed at the disposal of the premier for the purpose of "expenses and object best calculated to strengthen still further" the tie that bind the empire.

Sir Eric Geddes

The Chairman Of Imperial Airways

Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of Imperial Airways and of the Dunlop Rubber Company, died at his home in Sussex recently, at the age of 61. He was first lord of the admiralty during the closing years of the Great War and was a brother of Sir Auckland Geddes, former ambassador to the United States.

Geddes, as chairman of Imperial Airways, had been engaged with the company for managing transatlantic services until his recent illness. His death came less than two weeks before the scheduled start of the experimental flights by his company and Pan American Airways.

A businessman, discovered by Lloyd George for war service, he passed with rapidity through a succession of high positions and was one of the chief forces behind the country's war effort.

His first war post was deputy director-general of the munitions supply. In 1916 he was appointed director of general services for the British areas in France and was shortly recalled to England as director-general of military railways and inspector-general of transportation in all theatres of the war.

Entering parliament in 1917 as Conservative member for Cambridge University, Sir Eric became first lord of the admiralty, remaining at that post until 1918. He was later minister of transport.

Chickens Are Exempted

Motorists In United States Not Held For Striking Them

"There is no law in America to delay to the last minute its decision as to whether it will cross a road ahead of an automobile is considerably abridged in the State of New York by a bill amending vehicle and traffic laws," Governor Herbert Lehman has just signed. It amends the law under which a motorist could be held for striking or killing a chicken or any domestic animal.

The amended law requires a motorist whose car has struck a horse, a dog or any one or several animals classified as cattle, to report to the police or the officer in charge of the police or a judicial officer, exhibiting his license and giving his name and address. In such cases an arrest may be made without a warrant. Chickens, however, are exempted.—Chicago Tribune.

Death Dealing Chemicals

Have Retarded Progress For Past Twenty Years.

The research scientist with his eyes fixed on the dollar sign rather than alleviation of suffering can find the quickest and easiest road to wealth by seeking employment in agencies, declared Professor Antoine Lacassagne, assistant director of the Madison Institute of Paris, at Ottawa.

Professor Lacassagne, who coincided with Madame Curie discoverer of radium, was in Ottawa to address the joint conference of the Medical Association and the Ontario Society of Surgeons.

The Great War may have increased man's knowledge of death-dealing chemicals and apparatus, Professor Lacassagne declared, but it retarded genuine medical research by almost a decade.

South African Drinking Horns Used By Sioux

"They look like a long bag of a pleasant island in sub-tropical seas. Lord of the savuys down to the sands which are lapped by waves breaking from in the Pacific Ocean," says a writer in the Johannesburg Star. "And with the bones of his son only six pounds a yard?"

Who would not?

This is a South African who has never seen one. His name was supplied with a sketch of the horn which he guesses it from the word "savuys" which he has heard.

He is entitled to do so. For A. T. A. has found the decorated curved horns, also unearthed relics of the stone, bronze and iron ages.

Some of them are on exhibition at the British museum, where an official described them as "curious."

"The horns are the finest ever found in this country," Mr. Carter said.

These discoveries are so important because they show that this tract of marsh and forest in South Africa has been in almost continuous human occupation for thousands of years.

"Hitherto there has been no evidence of Savuys life on the north bank of the Thames, and it was believed that the Britons held the north side of the estuary,"

An Important Discovery

Glass Drinking Horns Used By Sioux 1,400 Years Ago

Glass drinking horns which were filled with water were used by Sioux about 1,400 years ago have been unearthed in a sandpit between Rainham and Upminster, Essex, England.

Some of them are on exhibition at the British museum, where an official described them as "curious."

Sixty Thousand Canadian Indians Will Get Treaty Money

Officials of the Indian Affairs branch of the department of native affairs say that 60,000 Indians, on land and on foot, will have shortly for the isolated districts of Northern Canada for the annual distribution of treaty money to the Indians.

Aboriginal settlers who have been compelled to leave the Dominion in recent years push northward during the past 40 years, receive an annual gift of $4 per head, and collection of the money is the big event of the year among the Indians.

Treaty Indians are found in parts of Ontario and in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territories. They are none of them in the provinces of Quebec or British Columbia. They are those who themselves signed away their aboriginal rights to territory or direct descendants of treaty signers.

Conditions as we find them today in this part of the country, or perhaps in any district, is not by any means due to crop failures alone, nor to poor governments, but to a great extent due to poor management coupled with poor investments.

In the Urban and Rural communities business men and farmers have not invested their funds wisely in former years, and the cold fact stands out to-day that the individual gone to his banker, or financial house for information regarding investment in the country today would be in a much better position financially.

You cannot get away from the fact that had you first obtained the advice of your local banking institution, many thousands of dollars would be available today for the local business man or farmer.

It is always good business to first obtain the advise when possible of some one that has made a life study of the subject you are interested in; this information will prevent you from dropping your entire resources into any "take a chance proposition", where you might lose all.

There is just as much money in Canada today as there was some years ago, and the circulation will be more noticeable if the individual will be just a little more cautious regarding his investments.

The oil industry's most expensive according job is collecting gasoline taxes for government which imposes it, a tax in the United States and Canada is more than $80,000,000 a year. It is estimated this costs the industry about $22,000,000 a year.

The oil severance and gasoline taxes in the United States alone. With different rates and exemptions and some laws making allowances for losses and some not, it is difficult to keep up to date, and will furnish the information required by the various taxing authorities.

Oil companies in fact hold school to teach their salesmen the tax regulations. Some have tax manuals of a hundred pages or more, applying the technical definitions to their list of products and telling which of the taxable.

The variety of returns required by 200 different kinds of taxes paid by oil industry is almost endless. One company, for instance, reported recently it had paid 1,600 different tax items in a year. Each item required several exchanges of correspondence. Cheques were drawn for amounts ranging from 25 cents to $800,000. Art. 24.

The Prairieville school held their picnic Monday afternoon at the Y. T. Ranch. Bernice Atkins was presented with a wrist watch by her teacher, Miss Hunter for her high marks in Grade VIII.

Mrs. W. Dayman has been the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Miller of Pincher Creek, former residents of town from Pincher Creek. Mrs. Dayman will go on to the Dayman cottage at Waterton Lakes.

Six sons, named Albert, Toskey, Arthur and Harold Smith, Floyd Clark, Wyman Parker, Elvin Dayman and Edward Ness made a very successful road race of two miles last week in very good time.

Wyman Parker came in first.

Albert Toskey a close second.

It is now suggested that a bicycle race should be held and that riders from Barons and Champion should be invited to contest, entries should be made to L. A. Stark.

Hauser-Hardy

A marriage which unites two pioneer families of Black Spring's Ridge, east of Carmangay, was solemnized at the parsonage, Barons, by Rev. G. Brett on June 22nd when Doris Elaine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy became the wife of Paul, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hauser.

Only immediate relatives were present at the ceremony and later also at the wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents, the table being centred with a three tier wedding cake.

For the ceremony the bride wore a lovely gown of embroidery gold crepe which was later topped by a coat of rough brown crepe with matching hat and accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Hauser left by car for a trip to the Pacific coast via Waterton Lakes and Glacier National Parks. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm on Black Spring's Ridge where a beautiful home awaits them.

THE CHRONICLE, CHAMPION, ALBERTA

BACK TO THE CROSS

THE ONLY WAY INTO UNION WITH CHRIST.

Do we leave the cross to go on to union with the risen Christ, is the question that we might ask ourselves. No we need the continued application of the death of Christ to the life, but you say I am in the risen Christ, and it is a living Christ, we need not a dead Christ, much of this misunderstanding is due to dealing with this blessed truth in the letter rather than in the spirit, the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. 2 Cor. 3:6.

The spirit of Christ, is the spirit of Calvary, Christ's death on the cross was the highest expression of the life of Christ as you partake of his life, the spirit of Christ crucifixion becomes the principal of your life.

Paul had not gone beyond the cross which he sought for a deeper union with the risen Lord, but he saw that the deeper union with the living Christ, the deeper must he sink. Phil 3:10.

To be risen with Christ, and to abide in him by a living faith means that you share the death of Christ. The condition for a triumphant Christian life is union with Christ, our Lord teaches this very clearly in John 3:18. He says with out me you can do nothing, and one of the early lessons of the believer is that he is absolutely dependent upon his Lord for everything.

He learns the helplessness of being without Christ, the message of Christ to the sinner has come to the believer, is abide in me.

He that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit. 1 Cor. 6:17. But how does that joining place? To believe in the Lord Jesus Christ implies a belief unto Christ the faith moves Christward and finds its anchorage in Christ himself, and thus the believer is brought into vital contact with him.

Let us turn to God's word in the third chapter of John, here we get clearly the Lord's teaching of regeneration on the new birth, first we are told our need of it, (see verse three) then we are told its nature, that it is a spiritual nature, or birth, verses 5-6, in verses 11-15 as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the son of man be lifted up. Calvary was necessary before the sinner could believe in Christ, the crucified saviour draws all unto him, John 12:32-33.

Satan's desire is to get believers away from the cross, and he often succeeds when he offers an inducement to seek a life of union with the risen Lord. But the devil knows that thine is no real union apart and away from the cross, and so he gives a counterfeit experience instead. Paul teaches us clearly in Rom. 6, that to be joined to the risen Christ, we must live in him by a living faith means that we must show his death. Know ye not that so many of us were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death, Rom. 6:3.

He also teaches us that a deeper union with Christ, is only possible as we have an even deeper acquaintance of the cross.

BASEBALL CHATTER

The Champion Club played Carmangay last Friday. The game which was rather one-sided to bring out any real thrills, proved to be interesting nevertheless on account of the nice individual plays, outstanding on both sides. The game was very close, much the stronger team the Carmangay boys just could not find the missing link that would give them a break, and were defeated 18-0.

Champion Club journeyed to Stavely last Sunday and defeated the Stavely boys 9-4. The game was warm and there was fine fielding on both sides. The Champion fans turned out in good numbers, with about 10 cars all-told. The Champion Club appreciates this support.
